

Amplitude, Midline, and Period

*The amplitude of a sine function is equal to the absolute value of one-half the difference between the highest and lowest points on the y-axis.

*The midline of a trigonometric function is the horizontal line halfway between the maximum and minimum values of the function.

*The length of one complete cycle (starting point back to starting point) is the period of a trigonometric function.