

Center for Workforce Development

Round-Table Presentation & Discussion:

Developing Safety Training: How to Be Compliant with OSHA Training Rules

Facilitated by: Dr. Ed Shelton, Executive Director of Workforce Development

Learn how to create effective and engaging safety standards and training that complies with OSHA standards.

- There are over 100 OSHA standards that govern safety training
- HR managers need help to be compliant
- Recognize OSHA required standards and required trainings
- What training are key safety issues for your organization
- Get a comprehensive update on the very latest in OSHA's ever-changing requirements
- Learn about innovative ways other organizations are successfully using tools to meet these stringent standards - without busting the budget
- Hear about available state funding to help your safety training become up to date

You will gain an understanding of the basics of OSHA record-keeping, learn how to avoid the top 10 most common OSHA violations, get tips for using proactive safety audit tools and discover smart ways to prevent accidents from happening. In addition, you will find out exactly what you need to do to be prepared for an OSHA site visit.

Feb.
27

9 AM to 12 PM

Business
& Industry
Center

Refreshments Included

Session is free to attend.

For more information or to register, contact us at 636-649-5803 or training@eastcentral.edu.